On the 2d of April the steamship City of Washington lost her propeller and proceeded to Liverpool under cantage; on the 17th she lost her rodder. Shortly afterward, In ItA 487, long 331, the Propontas fell in with the City of Washington and took off the above. The Washington rontinued under sail with a temporary rodder for Queenslown. Assistance was to be sent to her. News of her majety was received with great delight at Liverpool.

In the House of Commons on the 26th the debate on the Reformbill was continued. Mr. Lowe made a speech against the bill and was followed by a host of others, pro and con, of lesser note. On the 27th the final debate took place. After many speeches, D'Israels wound up on the side of the Opposition in a long and foreithe speech, denouncing Mr. Gladstone's advocacy of American principles, which he pregarded as unfitted for England.

At I o'clock on Saturday morning Mr. Gladstone rose and made the final speech, warmly defending the American Government and denouncing the Opposition's tactics. At 3 o'clock in the morning, and excitement, the division took place, the numbers for the bill being 318 against 313; Government majority, 5. There was tremendous cheering on both sides of the House at the result.

In the House of Commons attention had been drawn to the dangerous state of Daniet's Rock, off Cork harbor, from the fact of the week of the City of New-York still remaining apon it.

Mr. Milner Gibson soid it was doubtful if the owners of the ship could be compelled to remove the wreck, and that they were not in duty bound to the trade to do it.

The United States Consai at Liverpool on the 26th took formal possession of the ex-Rebel cruiser Tallahassee, in the name of the American Government, in the terms of the decision of the Court of Admirally.

The papers generally regard the vote on the second reading of the Reform bill as a Government victory only in mane, but in reality a defeat. There are various speculations as to the course the Ministers will adopt.

The Times says. As Government commenced the section with an estimated working majority of 60, the bare majority of five is, in faut, a vote of censure; and no Administration will henceforth hope to persuade the House of Commons to consider the reform proposals without laying the critic scheme before it.

The Moreaung Herald says: It is obvious the bill is lost, but whether Government will abide by its pielige and fall with its bill, we are to leaun on Monday.

The Moreaung Post says: There can be no doubt, although the Ministry have gained a nominal victory, they have, in truth, sustained a fated defeat. Nothing remains for them but to resign.

The Star thinks the small majority bodes ill for an early and tranquil settlement of the Reform question, and looks for new delays and fresh difficulties and confusion.

The scene in the House during the division is described ascene of unparalleled excitement. The cheering was taken up in the galleries in spite of all rules and orders.

The Atlantic Cable.

There is the same difference between the appearance of the Atlantic cable of this year and last as between a white man and a black. But this difference is purely external, and in so war applies either to the conducting wire or the many coatings of guita-percha and compound with which it is covered. These are precisely the same as last vear; and in shape, make, and size, the cable of to-day is identical with the one concerning which so meny sanguine hopes were raised twelve months ago. The outer protection is composed of wires cov.

and the control of th

means of going belt ample, so that under ordinary circumstances any idle person might have access to the cable without much difficately while it is on the transport vessel. To guard agains, such intrusion, a substantial but has been built upon, Esci covers a great portion of the Amethysi's deck, and the accessor proof of this and its outhouse shape, look strangely on-

Est everes a great person of the Amethysis deck, and the storing roaf of this, and its enthouse shape, look strangely unshillion when it is circued from the hind. Fast as the cable can be paid in and stowed away does it leave the works, and directly the Amethysis leave, her place will be supplied by the Iris, the vessel acting alternately as transport tender between the cable works and the Great Estern.

Not less interesting than what we have already seen is another manufacture connected with the expedition. We have traced every stage of the cable-making from the little Birmingham wire to the stont coil as paid into the great ship. The outside galvanized wires, covered with Manilla, are however made in another branch of the Construction Company's Works. Here, too, a massive grappling rope of wire and hemp la being made. The Great Estern had no grappling ropes on her last eventful voyage, and upon their absence, and the inefficiency of their substitutes, the fallure and disappointment of last year's expedition mainly rests. This year she will have on board the giant rope we saw slowly approaching completion, which is made on an improved principle, and has been triumphantly tested to bear far more than the strain ever needed during the picking up process hast year. Further, the testing apparatus has been so improved by the inventions and additions made by Mr. Willengthy Smith, that a flaw will be detected with certainty either before, or the instant it has been paid out. Add to this, that the picking-up machinery has been vastly increased in efficiency, and it will be readily seen that the experience of inst year has not been thrown away. It is, of course, hoped that the additional precautions token will render flaws and faults all but impossible; but it is a cheering assurance to know that they are unimportant. Upon this simple fact ocean telegraphy must be content to reat. No human effort can possibly haure against canualties, and the obvious consideration is, how to make casualities harmless. Capt. Austria and Prussia.

It is stated that an Austrian dispatch, delivered at Berlin on the 26th, announced that Austria had not immediately begun to disarm, on account of fresh complications having arisen with Italy. The semi-official Nord-Deutsch Zeitung of the 26th says: "Increased armaments of Austria forbid the disarmament of the Prussian forces. Should Austria attack Italy Prussia could not consent to see the Italian army disabled. Austria must reduce her establishment to a peace footing on Italian as well as Prussian frontiers, or must otherwise expect an increase of Prussian armaments." A Vienna telegram says: "The Austrian response to the Prussian note of the 21st acknowledges with satisfaction its conciliatory character, pointing out, however, that, virtually, Austria did not arm, but only effected certain movements of troops, as evidence of the peaceful aspect which the relations between the two great German Powers had assumed. Austria had made airangements for a retrograde movement of her forces concentrated in Bohemia, and officially communicated such airangements to Prussia.

A Berlin dispatch says: A considerable time before any war rumors, the military authorities made preparations for a drill of the landwebr. Consequently about 40,000 of the Landwehr will be assembled for military exercise in a few weeks.

Vienna dispatches assert that Austria, in her latest note to Prussia, declares her readiness to take the initiation in demobilizing her troops. But the armaments in Italy compel her to take measures for the protection of her frontier, especially the coast line. Prussia is sai to have declared she could not consider the proposals of Austria for disarmament as serious while she arms against Italy, and that Austria must reëstablish states quo in Vienna if she expects Prussia to demobilize her troops.

The Vienna Abend Post declares that Austria has definitely determined upon adopting energetic military measures in Venetia.

Origin of Tuesday's Disturbance-The Situation on Wednesday Morning-Horrible Ontrages on the Defenseless Negroes Indiscriminnte Slaughter on the Second Day-Incention on Wednesday Morning—Horrible Ontrages on the Defenseless Negroes—Indiscriminate Slaughter on the Second Bay—Incendiary Pires.

From The Memphis Fest, May I.

After carefully silting the thousand and one stories in circulation, in reference to the origin of the disturbance in South Memphis on Tossids, the following seems to be the ireth of the matter: Some 60 or 70 soldiers, recently discharged from the Third United States (colored) Heavy Artillery, were out on South 8t drinking. They got noisy, but were doing not damage. A squad of police came along and rused in among teem, making an arrest or two. The soldiers made an outery at this, but did not attack the police. They, however, fired several shots from their pistols, some say at the police and some at random. The police immediately commenced firing into the crowd of soldiers, and they returned the fire, killing one policeman and wounding two others.

Both sides were reinforced, and the action became general, with about the losses on both sides as given in yesterday's issue. We learn from a trust worthy gentleman who was in South Memphis early resterday morning, and also from the efficers in the Fort, that nearly all the negroes in the vicinity of the disturbance fled to the fort for protection after the affair on Tuesday night. South st. was perfectly quiet. The bodies of the negroes who had been killed were lying unduried, and most of them were horribly braised. Few negroes were visible any where in that locality. This is corroborated by two genmen, who accompanied the police on their first visit to that part of the town yesterday morning. Large numbers of citizens, armed with pistols, carbines and muskets, went down with them.

As soon as they reached, South-st. they began to fire upon every negro in sight. F. THE EXCISE LAW.

SUNDAY WITH AND WITHOUT LIQUOR.

THE OLD COMPARED WITH THE NEW REGIME.

DECREASE IN THE NUMBER OF ARRESTS.

INTERESTING STATISTICS.

The day before yesterday was, without doubt, the quietest Sabbath that has been seen in New-York in many rears. With few exceptions, the immense number of saloons and liquor-stores where liquid poisons were formerly dealt out by the glass from early morn till long after midnight, were closed on that day, much to the disgust of their former patrons, many of whom congregated in their vicinity and cursed the liquor law, its projectors and executors.

The Second, Third and Eighth-ave, lines of cars were crowded until a late hour in the afternoon with thirsty indi-viduals on their way to Westehester County-at present the crowded until a late hour in the afternoon with thirsty individuals on their way to Westchester County—at present the drinkers Paradise on Sunday, for in that favored locality could be had drinks inflimited, and the Excise Commission was a body unknown. Probably a larger number even that embarked on the cars took the North River ferries to Jersey City, Hoboken and Weehawken, the boats on the various routes being crowded to such an extent as to render locomotion almost impossible, and excite apprehensions for their safety, on the part of nerrous people.

To a denizen of the city, the anusual stillness was most remarkable. More particularly was this the case in the Bowery, where the German element predominates. Instead of the clash of half a dozen brass bands in the lager saloons, mingled with the clinking of glasses and the laughter of the many drink ers either walking soberly on the street, or eise off to the rural districts, where loger flowed unrestrained.

Central Park, just putting on its robe of green, was visited during the day by immense numbers of people, composed in good part of artisans and their families, who would undoubtedly have taken a glass or two of beer had it been easily procured, but who considered it no especial hardship to do without for one day, even though that day is what is looked upon by them as their heliday.

Considerable trouble was anticipated by the various Police Captains through whose precincts run the lines of travel leading to the suburis on the return of the revelers. Their fearproved uniousded, however. There were reports of rows having taken place near Motthaven and Fordham in West-chester County, and at Weebawken and Hoboken in New-Jorsey, but it most cases the reports were exaggerated, and en coming within the city limits the rowdies had the good sense or prodence to behave themselves.

The Twidth Precinct Police, within whose boundaries are located the termini of the Second and Third are, railroads and one end of Harlem Bridge (over which passed a steady stream of perso of persons from merning until after midnight), only arrested one man for intoxication.

The Third Frecinct Police arrested 15 persons for intoxication, 1 for disorderly conduct and 2 pickpockets among the immense throng who crowded on the Jersey City ferry at the foot of Chambers st. The most remarkable exhibit, however, is that of the Sixth Frecinct, which takes in Mission-plane, the Five Points and all of that terrible locality between Broadway and the Bowery, extending from Grands.t. down to the City Hail Park, comprising, with the exception of the Fourth Ward, more low groggeries than can be found in the same space in any portion of the United States, not one arrest was made for drankenness, and there was but one case of disorderly conduct. This is the more remarkable, as the number of arrests on Sunday and Sunday night formerly averaged from 18 to 20, the most of whom were either drank or disorderly.

orderly conduct. This is the more remarkable, as the number of arrests on Sunday and Sunday night formerly averaged from Is to 20, the most of whom were either drunk or disorderly.

In the Fourth Precinct, wherein are located the sailor dance houses and other low haunts, Water and Cherry-siz, where, on the first floor of almost every bouse, is located a sailon, there were but two arrests for drunkenness and none for disorderly conduct, something almost unknown in the history of that precinct for the past ten years.

The Seventh Precinct police report that is their Ward the day was very generally respected by the sailon keepers. Jacob Steinberg, keeper of a sailon at No. 29 East Broadway, gave vent to his feelings by draping his sign and placing above in the inscription. "Moorning the Sunday Law."

From the Twenty-tourd Precinct, comprising Yorkville and vicinity, Capt. Hutchings reports that the only liquor-dealer who violated the law by keeping his place open, was Mark Maguire, proprietor of the "Red House," One-hundred and sixth-st, and Second-ave., who was arrested. J. J. Meniger, proprietor of a lager beer brewery and saioon at the corner of Feurth-ave, and Eighty-seventh st., had the American flag flying from his building at half mast, and on being asked the reason for such an unusual exhibition, replied that Liberty was dead in America, and he had lowered the flag "in memory of departed worth."

The police reports from the various Precinets throughout the city show that for the 24 hours preceding to clock a, m. on Monday, the 30th ult., of 197 arrests 35 were for intoxication, and 40 for disorderly conduct. Of the 147 arrests made for the 24 hours preceding Monday morning last, only 34 were for drunkenness, and 25 for disorderly conduct, while 65 were for violations of the Sanday liquor law. Of those arrested for intoxication, 15—nearly one-half the entire number—were arrested on his way home from New Jersey.

At the Essex Market Police Court yesterday, up to the time of closing, there had been but one pr

Obituary. IRA FRANKLIN BIRD.

"Frank Bird," a familiar name to many New-York printers, and for a long time employed in THE TRIBUSE composing rouns as copy-cutter, assistant foreman, etc., has passed away. In many respects Frank Bird was a fair type of American typos. Shrewd, smart, energetic, intelligent, wide-awake, and generous to a fault, be crammed his mind with a wonderful amount of miscellaneous information, passed through an unusual number of vicissitudes, contracted the consumption, and went home a week or two ago to die. On last Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock he was attacked with hemorrhage, in his mother's residence, in New-Haven, Conn. and died in a few minutes. Some printers become great editors, others attain influential positions of State, and far more glide away into oblivion, leaving as few traces behind as the common mass of mortals; but, probably, few, while pay ing the last debt of nature, have left such a heavy account, on the other side of the balance, in the shape of kindly remem-brances of the past. "A fellow of infinite jest," in thinking of him, we recall the wit and humor of Yorick, and, a the same time, remember with tenderness the many good. noble and sterling qualities which he possessed; and a large circle will mourn his decease.

CORONER COLLIN.

Shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Coroner Edward Collin died at his residence in Fifty ninth st., near Third-ave., from softening of the brain The deceased had for many years pust been an active politician, first in the ranks of the Whig, and subsequently in politician, first in the ranks of the wing, and suggested these of the Republican party. In the Autumn of 1861, he was elected to the position of Coroner on the Union ticket, put forth for the first time at that election, and after serving for three years, was reflected, and acceptably filled the position until a short time before his death. He, at the time of his death, held the position of Vice President of the "Americus Club," an association composed of leading members of the Democratic and Republican parties in this city. Few men in either party were wider known or more universally respected than was the deceased. He was a native of this city, and was aged 59 years. The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoop, at 2 o'clock, at the Eleventh Presbyterian Church in Fifty third-st., near Lexington-ave.

P B upon last Monday's estimates; that is ic. in price, buyers and sellers estimate, and sellers say ic. in esti-mate of weight and quality, but buyers do not acknowledge that, and so we put the decline at ic.; and it is very remarkable that it is not much more. We think it would have been if buyers had known early in the morning the extent of the supply for the week, which is excessively large for this season of the year. There have been sold here, on Wednesday, 317; on Thursday, 315; on Friday, 200; on Saturday, 100; at Yorkon Thursday, 315; on Friday, 200; on Saturday, 100; at York-ville vards, 100; direct to slaughter yards, 150; at down-town stables, 100; at Bergen, 1,735, which added to the number here to-day makes upd,754 for the week, which may be still further increased to-morrow, though we do not hear of any stock on the way. The average quality is remarkably good this week, and that will account for the average rate of quotation being 154; # B against 145; last week, when the real decline is half a cent more. A very large proportion of the stock has sold to-day at 15wife. # B, and we hear of only one lot as high as 154;, this was 25 head of superior litinois steers, avis half a cent more. A very large proportion of the stock has sold to day at 150-51c. P B, and we hear of only one lot as high as 175c.; this was 21 head of superior Illinois steers, averaging 55 cwt. Some of the salesmen bought their stock at Albany at high rates, and held the best of it at 18c. P B early in the morning, and, possibly, some buttlebers paid that, but if they dol; they paid above the market price. Indeed, good fair droves of Illinois steers are reported as only averaging 15c. The poorest animals—and but few in number—are quoted, at 152:14jc. P B, and some very good stock at 16c. The sales are generally unsatisfactory to those who hought their stock at Albany, and it is hard for some of them to "come out." Their efforts to do so have tended to keep up prices, but the effort could not be sustained through the afternoon, and the market closed with rather more than usual of stock on hand, and very dull prospects of closing out without a considerable decline. The weather to-day is remarkably favorable for ent-door business, being clear and mild.

The sheep market, which went up a cent Thursday, fell helf a cent Friday and opened at that this morning, with a moderate supply, and declined 173c, before noon. Sheared sheep sold early at 9c. P lb, and unsheared at 9½ 200c. The tendency of the market is downward.

There are only five car-loads of hegs in the market, which are selling readily at 10½ 21c. P b for city retail trade.

Unfounded Report of a Case of Cholern.

An unknown man was found by the police last Sunday morning, on Pier No. 41, foot of Canal-st, in an apparently moribund condition, and was removed to Bellevas Hospital, where he died in about three bours after admission. The symptoms-coldness and emesis-resembled somewhat those which accompany cholers, and the report that he lad those which accompany cholers, and the report that he had died of this disease reached the medical officers of the Board of Health. The scalpel however, furnished the best evidence that death was produced by strangulated hernia—a disease which is quite obscure, and whose pathognomout characteristics are little known save to the educated observer. The matter was fully investigated, but little was learned concerning the deceased beyond the fact that he was taken sick or his way from Albany to this city.
